Capt. Hawks Hurt in Plane Crash

NOTED FLIER IN NEW ENGLAND CITY HOSPITAL

Suffers Serious Head Injuries When Plane Is Wrecked at Airport.

RUNS INTO STONE WALL

Jaw Fractured and Is Feared He May Have Facial Paralysis.

By The Associated Press

WORCESTER, Mass., April 7—Captain Frank M. Hawks, famous speed king of the air, and holder of several transcontinental records, was seriously, but not critically injured today when he crashed into a stone wall while attempting to take off from the Worcester airport.

Hawks was unconscious when taken to Worcester city hospital but soon recovered his senses.

Hospital surgeons reported Hawks' face was seriously contused and lacerated. X-rays disclosed jaw fractures, but not skull fracture. The surgeons said he may have facial paralysis as a result of the jaw fracture.

Hawks filled a lecture engagement here last night.

A soft field forced Hawks to attempt a take-off from a dirt road cutting across the airport, but this proved unsatisfactory and he then took off across the field. Unable to gain the 70-mile an hour speed necessary to lift his ton-and-a-half ship from the field, his plane plowed through underbrush, and then struck the stone wall, overturning, while traveling at a 50 mile an hour clip.

Hawks Has Notable Record in Aviation

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 7—Captain Frank M. Hawks, who was seriously injured in a take-off crash at Worcester, Mass., today, attracted national attention in February, 1929, when he flew from Los Angeles to New York, non-stop in 18 hours, 21 minutes and 29 seconds.

From that time on he has been America's leader in the development of speed for aircraft. [illegible] Angeles to New York record was quickly broken, but he regained it in June, 1929, when he flew from New York to Los Angeles, non-stop, in 19 hours, 10 minutes and returned non-stop the next day in 17 hours, 36 minutes.

Hawks had hoped to be the first man to make a non-stop flight from New York to Paris. It was when this feat was performed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh that Hawks turned his attention to speed.

As fast as his competitors wrested records from him he concentrated on regaining them and few were the aviators who could equal his pace.

When other fliers bested the transcontinental records by making refueling stops on the way, Hawks supervised the construction of a low-winged monoplane and in August, 1930, flew from New York to Los Angeles in 14 hours, 30 minutes and 43 seconds, making five stops.

Subsequently he flew between scores of American and Canadian cities to establish informal records.

G. O. P. VOTE COUNT CHANGES

Conservatives Go into Lead in Wisconsin Primary Returns.

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 7—Tabulation of returns from 2,076 of the state's 2,845 precincts today gave conservatives a 16 to 11 advantage over the LaFollette progressive faction in the contest for control of the Wisconsin Republican delegation to the national convention.

The conservatives were out in front with four candidates for delegate at large and 12 district candidates, although the margin between progressives and conservatives in several districts was small. Progressives controlled eight district seats and three delegates at large.

The entire slate of six Democratic delegates at large and 19 district Democratic delegates pledged to support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for President, apparently were assured of election on the basis of the same returns. An independent Democrat, who ran on the platform of "Al Smith and prosperity," held the lead in the Fourth district.

Senators Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., John Blaine, and Theodore Dammann, secretary of state, were the big vote-getters on the progressive Republican ticket. All held leads which virtually assured them seats at the convention.

DONITHEN CONDITION IS 'UNUSUALLY GOOD'

Marion Attorney Shows Steady Improvement After Operation.

The condition of Hoke Donithen, Marion attorney who yesterday morning underwent a major operation at Grant hospital in Columbus, was pronounced "unusually good" last midnight by Dr. T. H. Sutherland, who assisted Dr. Luke Zartman of Columbus in the operation.

Donithen was relaxed and sleeping soundly when Dr. Sutherland left Columbus at midnight. He had slept from 4 p. m. to midnight without interruption. His condition has shown steady improvement, Dr. Sutherland said.

The operation was the second in a few months.

LINDBERGH RETAINS KIDNAP NEGOTIATORS

Renews Request That Norfolk Trio Continue Efforts To Recover Child.

NORFOLK, Va., April 7—Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, said today that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has renewed his request that efforts be continued by the three Norfolk negotiators to recover his kidnaped baby.

The spokesman said the intermediaries are holding themselves in readiness to leave if necessary at any time on another such a trip as made by John Hughes Curtis, who yesterday brought back assurances that the baby was well and that he had made contact with the kidnapers.

Negotiator Reports "Baby Is Well"

By The Associated Press

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 7—The village of Hopewell, tingling for days with a vague feeling that Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., would be home long before this, had to salve its disappointment today with a message out of the void.

"The baby is well."

John H. Curtis, gone since Saturday from his Norfolk, Va., home to keep rendezvous with a person he looks upon as an agent for the kidnapers, relayed the words of cheer.

Returned Wednesday

He made his announcement on his return yesterday, adding that during his four day absence he met Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

This for the first time gave definite indications of a connection between the Norfolk boat builder's mysterious movements and two flights the flying colonel recently made to Martha's Vineyard and other islands off the Massachusetts coast.

Curtis cryptically said he had made a "contact" and that information he gave the baby's father relieved the latter "greatly."

Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, another of the three Norfolk intermediaries, declined to say whether ransom payments had been arranged or whether the infant would be back soon. Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the state police, declared there was no significance in the fact that lights have been burning in the nursery from which the baby was stolen, March 1.

Johnson Exonerated

Police finally abandoned any hope that Henry (Red) Johnson, suitor of Betty Gow, the baby's nurse could give them any clue in the kidnaping. They announced they would turn him over to immigration officials Monday to face an accusation of entering the country illegally.

From the Maine shore, came reports of a man hunt for a man and a woman. Fishermen said they came ashore from a small boat at Waquoit, trundling a baby carriage.

Coast guardsmen from New London, Conn., were searching for a "certain white yacht," they said—but they would say nothing more. Col. Lindbergh was reported to have been seeking a small vessel called Nellie or Sallie when he made his airplane trips.

Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, state police head in his morning bulletin today said activities of a New Jersey car in Featherbed lane back of the Lindbergh home last night were being investigated. The car was supposed to have been met in the lane by one from the Lindbergh house. Col. Schwartzkopf said no one from his headquarters met such a car last night and the car was not in any way connected with the investigation being conducted from his headquarters.

CONVICTS REVEALED AS COUNTERFEITERS

By The Associated Press

GENOA, April 7—The police were aghast today when, coming to the end of the trail in a search for counterfeiters, they discovered that excellently made spuriouscoins of five and 10 lire were being turned out by convicts at Marassi prison and circulated by the warden.

The discovery caused such amazement that the chief government prosecutor has taken charge of the case and all the counterfeiters have been placed in solitary confinement.

HOOVER CALLS ECONOMY MEET

Replies to House Committee Demands with White House Invitation.

WILL CONVENE SATURDAY

President Will Submit Economy Recommendation at That Time.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 7—Replying to the demand of the house economy committee that he submit specific recommendations for reducing federal expenditures, President Hoover today invited the committee to meet with him at the White House at 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

The President's letter was addressed to Chairman McDuffie of the economy committee. It suggested the meeting with him be held "with a view to taking stock of the progress made by your committee in the development of a program of economy."

The meeting, he said, also would afford "the executive an opportunity to make suggestions."

The chief executive recently urged in a special message to congress that representatives be appointed from both the house and senate to sit with his own representatives to draw up a comprehensive economy measure. The suggestion drew attack in both the house and senate, with Democrats charging he was "shirking responsibility."

The President in a counter attack, said he could see no way to draw up a unified program except through such a committee. In today's letter he asserted he would continue to urge that a senate group be appointed to deal exclusively with economy measures.

Chairman McDuffie accepted the President's invitation on behalf of his committee.

INGALLS CALLS FOR CUT IN PUBLIC COSTS

Republican Candidate for Governor Addresses Political Club.

MAKES THREE TALKS HERE

Speaks Briefly Before Traffic Club, Then Addresses 300 at School Auditorium.

The campaign of David S. Ingalls of Cleveland for the Republican nomination as governor was definitely launched in this district last night by Ingalls' visit to this city to appear at three meetings and the announcement of the organization of a local Ingalls for Governor club.

Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aeronautics gave a political speech to 30 members of the newly organized club at Hotel Harding after a dinner at 6 p. m. He spoke briefly before members of the Central Ohio Traffic club in the ballroom of the hotel and then went to the Edison Junior High school auditorium for an educational talk on the aeronautical division of the navy, and its importance in warfare. Three hundred heard this talk and viewed the three reels of films of aerial manuevers.

Dr. Smith Heads Club

Dr. C. G. Smith is president of the Ingalls-for-Governor club, for Marion and vicinity. E. O. Tuttle Jr. is secretary and treasurer, and J. W. Llewellyn, T. E. Kinnear, Dr. P. L. Thomas, Dr. E. C. Sherman of Cardington are members of an executive committee. The club has 150 members.

In his talk to the club members Ingalls declared that the only issue before Ohio voters this year is the necessity of running the government cheaper.

Responsibility for bringing about business efficiency in government and a reduction in the cost of operating the state government was placed on the governor's shoulders by Ingalls. The legislature in 1920 centralized many important phases of the state government under the governor's control giving the governor sufficient power to insist on economy in those departments particularly, he said.

If elected governor he will recommend, if necessary, that ad-

36 HORSES BURNED IN MARYLAND BLAZE

$350,000 Estimated Loss; Origin Unknown, but Fire Believed Incendiary.

By The Associated Press

LUTHERVILLE, Md., April 7—Cause of the fire here late last night that destroyed 36 thoroughbred horses and a stable on the estate of Lewis E. Lambert at a loss of $350,000, was sought today.

W. P. Barnett, caretaker, who lives near the burned stable, insists the blaze was incendiary. He told officers that when he discovered the fire flames were shooting up on the outside of the barn from two sides but that there was no fire inside.

The horses were valued at $200,000 and the stable and its equipment at $150,000.

The horses—hunters, jumpers and show animals—were mostly all the property of Lambert.

The blaze, shooting into the sky, brought Barnett to the porch of his home a little after 11 o'clock last night. He called out an alarm to the workmen and a group rushed to the stable.

As the doors of the barn were swung open the flames burst through from the sides and it was impossible to enter. The horses appeared to be stampeding.

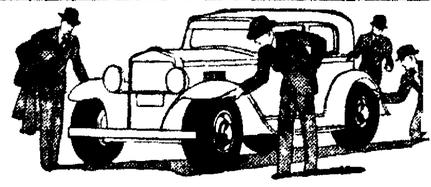
Meet the GOODYEAR AIRWHEEL
Softest • Safest • Smartest new motor car tire



*AIRWHEEL is Goodyear's trade mark, registered U. S. A. and throughout the world, and is used to indicate that Goodyear is the exclusive maker of AIRWHEEL.

● INTRODUCED FIRST BY GOODYEAR to aviation close to three years ago, these big, buoyant, soft-rolling rubber cushions set new standards of safety. They made smooth, gentle landings on plowed ground, swamp land, sand or snow where planes never dared to land before. They took the threat out of tricky cross-wind landings by absorbing side-sway. They gave new softness to landings and take-offs at express train speed. They put new power in brakes. Now Goodyear pioneers these super-soft tires for cars.

HERE is bad news for bumpy roads. Here is a tire that rolls over them as nonchalantly as if they were million dollar highways.

Its name is Goodyear Airwheel, and it's so downright handsome that a lot of people will want a set of these tires just for the style and swank they can add to cars.

But that's only chapter 1, page 1, in the story of what they mean to motoring.

Because they flow over bumps on twelve to sixteen pounds of air, they save you and your car from the jolts you get even from average balloons.

Because they absorb side-swing and take up side-sway, you'll find that they take curves with new security.

Because they put more of the All-Weather Tread against the road, they make the world's best-known safety tread safer than ever.

Because they're light-running and easy-rolling, they need no more gasoline than any other tires, and they make no difference in speed or steering.

Because they've been fully tested on the world's greatest test fleet, we can tell you that they matched the top mileage of balloon tires on test cars run on day-and-night schedules.

Here's the kind of tire that is waiting for you now at your Goodyear dealer's. He can show you five sizes. The biggest, softest, most spectacular is the 9.00-13. But the one which most people are likely to buy is the 6.50-16, because it delivers the luxurious comfort of the Airwheel at closer the price of conventional tires—and in between are the 7.00-16, 7.50-15 and 8.25-15 sizes.

"I am simply overjoyed that I have back my beautiful clear skin .. now I work and mingle with my associates and friends with confidence and enthusiasm.

"People admire me and ask how I did it. I tell them about S.S.S. and how it gave me the glow of health. It is a wonderful aid to the system. It improves the appetite . . clears the skin ... and thru its regeneration of the red-blood cells and hemoglobin I feel like myself again."

You, too, may have a clear skin from any drug store. In two sizes, regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, April 8

RATHER conflicting planetary configurations are observed in this day's astrological chart. Employment is under fair auspices for favors or slight promotion. There may be a minor change of benefit, elders may be substantially friendly and helpful, and women may be of kindly assistance. But be careful with money, shun speculation and do not lend or indulge in extravagance. With discretion it is likely that progress, prosperity and pleasant associations may be enjoyed.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of prosperity, advancement and happiness with helpful friends and employers, favors from elderly women or old-established institutions, but be frugal and conservative with funds, shun speculation, loans, gambling and personal extravagances. A child born on this day may be practical, industrious, but fond of show and indulgence. But it may curry the favor of females and elders, benefiting substantially thereby.

COSMOPOLITAN JURY SEATED IN HONOLULU

Seven Races Likely To Weigh Evidence in Sensational Island Murder Case.

(Copyright by The Associated Press, 1932)
HONOLULU, April 7 A jury as cosmopolitan as Honolulu mel... ing pot of races' is in prospect fo... the murder trial of Mrs Granville Fortescue and three naval men charged with the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian.
Seven races were represented by the 12 men tentatively seated
And they have Clarence Darrow veteran criminal attorney admittedly as nearly "stumped" as he ever was in his life
Commenting upon the prosecutors elimination of white veniremen in rapid fire order with peremptory challenges which required no reason for removing a man from the box the gray haired leader of the defense predicted there will be no more than three white men on the jury when the case goes to trial
With a wry smile the grizzled veteran said that for the first time in his 54 years of law practice, he was a little puzzled when talking to prospective jurymen And one of the reasons is that a lot of the jurymen in Honolulu have slant eyes
Tentative jurors at the opening of today's session were three Americans two Chinese two Hawaiians a Swede a Scotchman, a German, a Portuguese and a Chinese American. All however, are United States citizens
Both Use Challenges
The number of Anglo Saxons whom Darrow has seated whenever possible, was depleted rapidly by the prosecution when it began exercising its 24 peremptory challenges, eight of which were used yesterday Darrow countered by removing Hawaiians and Orientals with as many peremptory challenges
Darrow predicted that all of the 48 permissible peremptory challenges would be exhausted before the jury is finally selected

INGALLS CALLS FOR PUBLIC COST CUT

Republican Candidate for Governor Addresses Political Club.

ditional centralization of authority under the governor be provided by the legislature to promote efficient and economical management he declared
Points to Means
Economies, he continued can be effected in three ways first, to study the situation thoroughly for the purpose of doing away with all non-essentials in state affairs, second, eliminate all duplications and overlapping activities, third develop greater efficiency in departments under the governor's control He pledged himself to follow this course
He would demand cooperation from other departments and state institutions outside the governor's jurisdiction in effecting the same efficiency and economy he said
"There must be no addition to taxes" he stated If elected, he would aim to remedy defects in the state's new tax system after a year's trial and would strive to prevent additions to state and local taxes
Bond issues have had much to do with our present governmental and tax troubles, and when the borrowing limits are more firmly fixed a long step will have been taken toward lessening the public burden he asserted As a means to limit the bonded debt he proposed legislation requiring a higher percentage of popular vote to authorize bond issues.
"So expensive and luxurious is government today that it can not continue to operate on its present scale,' Ingalls said "The fault lies primarily with the voters, who don't put the right men in office and then stand behind them.
"But people of Ohio and other states are taking more interest in politics and government that at any time in the past I have become convinced of this in my travels about the state If the depression has done anything beneficial, it is found in this tendency to increase public interest and activity in governmental affairs."
Speaks on Defense
The importance of an adequate national defense was the theme of the talk given by Ingalls at the Thomas Edison Junior High school following the dinner meeting at the Hotel Harding
Adequate preparedness he declared is necessary if this country is to hold the respect of the nations of the world 'A national defense stronger than any other country may not be necessary' it was pointed out by the speaker "but such a condition would be pretty sure to discourage any nation from assuming a warlike attitude toward this country
He pointed to China as an outstanding example of a nation without national defense 'So long as human nature is as it is the speaker declared 'there will be wars and a though no nation or no people would dread another war as would the people of this country, such a thing is not impossible and the surest guarantee against another war is adequate prepared ness' The navy at the present time he said has 1 000 planes, 1 200 officers and 8 000 men in the air forces
Flies to Toledo
Three reels of film showing navy and air corps maneuvers in southern waters last winter were shown by the assistant secretary. They had to do principally with the plane carrier Saratoga showing in detail how the planes take off and land
Ingalls came here by airplane from Bellefontaine He flew last night after the address at the Lodi son school to Toledo He will speak today in Bryan and Friday in Toledo

STRIKE IS OVER

Day of Conflict Fails To Reinstate University Editor.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, April 7—Despite Columbia university's strike riot, Reed Harris, militant student-editor, stayed expelled today.
One question seemed to be settled, though, as Alma Mater, Giant gilt statue on the library steps, gazed sternly over a litter of tattered placards, broken glass and shattered vegetables. That was.
(1) The strikers made better speeches.
(2) The athletes aimed better with addled eggs
The one-day strike called to protest Harris' explusion after he had criticized dining hall food and finances developed into a six hour series of fights That was because athletes, attacked as professionals by the editor, objected to the strike.

BRITISH STATESMAN PLANS RETIREMENT

David Lloyd George Will Devote Time to Writing and Farming.

By The Associated Press
LONDON April 7 Friends of David Lloyd George said today he had decided already to retire from the house of commons

LLOYD GEORGE

He will devote his time they said, to writing and farming and only events of outstanding importance will bring him back into the house
Commentators recently have pointed out that it was hard to see what his place could be in the present political scheme with his old party split and merged under new leaders in the national cabinet
A suggestion that he cooperate with the labor party opposition in the new parliament has met with little enthusiasm from either side, and his vigorous attacks upon the national government have left no place for him there
It was during the latter years of the war that Lloyd George rose to the heights of his power He drove the British side of the war forward and by his will power personality and oratory swayed the benches of the house of commons and led the British public as have few others in British history

Washington dispatches are to the effect that President Hoover has been advised by Henry L. Examination of bank records by experts of the Hofstadter legislative committee investigating official corruption in New York City has disclosed that the deposits of the borough president of the Bronx for the five years covered by the investigators were greater than those of the Bronx public works commissioner, which exceeded $98,000 in 1931. For Fifty Years a Favorite.

Rose Coghlan, who for half a century won the plaudits of playgoers, died in St. Vincent's retreat at Harrison, New York, last Saturday, at the age of eighty-one, but news of her death did not reach the outside world until the filing of the certificate of her death this week.

The stage career of Miss Coghlan was a notable one. She won high honors as a star and in support of stars both in England the land of her birth, and here in America, of which she became a naturalized citizen. Her surpassing beauty of face and form would have made her a prominent figure of the stage had her talent been little more than ordinary, but she possessed high histrionic ability and a speaking voice which left nothing to be desired. She essayed many parts, and achieved great success in all of them, the most notable being those of Rosalind, Mistress Page in 'The Merry Wives of Windsor," Peg Woffington, Zicka in "Diplomacy," Lady Teazle and Stephanie in "Forget-me-not," the last named probably being her greatest success. At least, it was her favorite. For ten years she was the leading woman at Wallack's in New York City and was, during all the decade, easily the favorite actress of the metropolis. Of the stars she supported the elder E. H. Southern Joseph Jefferson, Barry Sullivan and Dion Boucicault may be named, and she was the player queen in the brilliant presentation of Hamlet, in the cast of which Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett and Modjeska appeared.

Miss Coghlan had passed life's meridian before she appeared in this city. The girlish grace and beauty, which had captivated audiences here in America and abroad, were no longer hers. But she had attained an artistry which was not hers in her youthful years and gave Marion playgoers one of the most delightful entertainments ever staged in the Grand. She proved a finished actress, whose ability justly entitled her to the fame she had attained.

Her last stage appearance was made in 1921 as Madame Rabouin in David Belasco's production of "Daburau" in New York City.

Talking Things Over.

America can have less capacity than some for worry about European problems, but it is not for the best. Still, Europe's problems are America's problems, sooner or later, so a temple to some theme of diplomatic patience and patriotism at least.

The secretary of state Henry L. Stimson will make the week for Geneva to confer with the leadership of the American delegation in the arms conference. His departure will coincide with an exodus of representatives meeting with European this year. It started with delegates of the main body of the arms conference delegation. It will reach a climax when delegates leave for the Lausanne conference, to be held in June.

In the meantime the four great powers of Europe are meeting in a conference intended originally to provide an opportunity to discuss financial structures affecting the European countries, but broadened within the last few days to cover the whole range of European problems from disarmament, through war debts, to reparations.

The increasing popularity and use of the conference method of settling problems is the most tangible evidence of progress in the direction of peace that could be wanted. The conference is not new, but conference for the underlying purpose of building good will and promoting international cooperation are new. Not an modern conference, of course, produce favorable results, but, compared with the formal meetings of old, when delegates bristling with national pride and armed with impossible demands scowled at each other, their spirit shows vast improvement. At least, the people who depend on them to keep the international machinery running smoothly like to think they do, and their attitude determine to a great extent the attitude of the delegates.

A moment's reflection on the growing dependence placed on the conference method makes it seem not too audacious and visionary to predict that as international relations become more and more complex it may be necessary to establish an official international settlement where empowered representatives may live in one community the year around, conferring constantly to maintain international harmony and mutual understanding.

Representative Woodrum, of Virginia was applauded yesterday when he told the house that the high-salaried officers of the Grain Stabilization corporation and the cotton cooperatives were "racketeers" and that the farm board had countenanced their practices. The first thing the country knows the fellows drawing high salaries under the guise of saving the farmers will get mad and leave it to its fate.

Through a Long Summer.

The probability that congress will remain in session until late next summer instead of voting final adjournment before the political conventions in June, is being admitted with more frequency lately. Congressional salary cutting appears less and less attractive as the prospect of a hot summer in the tidewater region of the Potomac reveals it of more clearly.

Last year, with congress in recess from March to December $10000 salaries seemed to come easy. This year with long daily sessions and extra burdens of committee work already claiming their toll of fatigue and shortened tempers, the likelihood that there will be no rest until as late as August or September makes the job of legislating for all the states a real one.

There will be, of course, a recess of sufficient duration to permit attendance of the national conventions, following which congressmen will return to Washington to resume their tasks. All of them acclimated or not to super-humidity in the District of Columbia, should be interested in Newton D. Baker's opinion that congress should remain in session constantly. Under the Democrat's boomerang policy of time for every one to say his say in discussion of legislative proposals December to December sessions appear more as reality than fancy.

The remarkable shift of attention from the senate to the house during the tax fiasco has caused many people to forget momentarily the former branch's vast capacity for wrangling and protracted debate. In addition to the tax bill and appropriations, the senate has still to consider bills authorizing naval construction up to treaty limits, Philippine independence, phases of prohibition, Muscle Shoals, the World court, banking, agriculture and several other important matters. A long dusty road lies ahead stretched out ominously between parallel lines of Washington summer temperature charts.

Strange as it may seem the prospect is less frightening in its effect on the public than might be expected. Disturbances are relative the people are less concerned over the effect of the legislative mud than the writers themselves who would like to get back home to repair their damaged fences.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., has warned the two old parties that the inclusion of wet planks in their presidential platforms would arouse dry opposition. It is just possible that the warning would have been fully as effective had it come from some other source.

And now the Australian government has followed the lead of Canada and New Zealand by issuing a note to the Irish Free State urging it not to weaken the ties which bind it to the British empire and hinting at the dangers such a course would entail. President de Valera may discover, like many another elevated to high position, that responsibility for executing great events exceeds that which is assumed in planning.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, has introduced a resolution proposing a trade boycott against violators of the Kellogg peace pact, and declaring against recognition of any new state created as a result of a breach of the Kellogg treaty. Such a resolution can not well be taken as other than one directed at Japan, as Japan alone is charged with having broken that treaty. Some very good people seem unaware of the fact that it takes two to lead to war just about as speedily as any other.

Editorial Opinion.

TURN 'EM OVER.

Collegiate authorities in certain of our major institutions might begin to consider the advisability of turning over such temples of learning to the more capable student bodies therein. Certainly since the states and the federal government have become objects of expert college student criticism, why shouldn't these enlightened disciples of intellectual wisdom and superauthority prescribe college policy, define college discipline and direct its administration.

The students of Columbia university, in considerable number, at present are raising riotous protest against the recent expulsion of the editor in chief of the Columbia Spectator. The university's naughty president and faculty presumed to remove Mr. Harris because that young man persisted in presenting to his fellow students and the world at large a sort of tintype portrayal of Henry Menckenism.

Judged by his editorial product Mr. Harris is peeved about most everything his misguided university and this wobbly United States government have done or propose to do.

He knows all about how colleges and governments should be run. The American Civil Liberties union has taken him to its sympathizing bosom. The union believes in student criticism, especially if such criticism calls in question accredited institutional authority any authority.

The facts of this case are that young Harris for a long time had been indulging an exotic flair for ironical iconoclasm in connection with university procedure in general. He had attacked the college food and service, the reserve officers training camp plan, jibed at such narrow minded associations as the Daughters of the American Revolution and the American legion, intercollegiate football, and consistently applauded the frustrated student delegation invasions of Kentucky, etc.

Fortunately not all of Columbia's student body are in agreement with Harris and the Civil Liberties union. Certainly, and fortunately, Dr. Butler and Dean Hawkes not yet have abdicated their positions and tendered their resignations.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A LEAP IN THE DARK.

The passage by the house of the bill conferring independence upon the Filipinos in eight years is even more a leap in the dark than that extension of the suffrage in Great Britain which gave birth to the once familiar phrase "for the new voters of that time had at least a heritage of ordered government. What the Filipinos will do if they are cut off from the United States in the brief period prescribed by this measure must remain a matter of speculation. The possible disasters are imperfectly recognized in its provisions.

The best that can be said for them is that they maintain a measure of American control until the final separation. The form of government must be republican and contain a bill of rights, and until such time as it is adopted the citizens of the islands shall owe allegiance to the United States and all officials take an oath to that effect. There are various provisions as to debts, schools, coinage, trade, and other matters of importance, and the relations with the United States pending independence of the islands are carefully defined. But the fact remains that in the eight years allowed by the bill the Philippines is to become a foreign land.

There are commercial influences behind this resolve on separation from a people to whom we still have many obligations. It may not be as desirable either for them or for us as the advocates of the bill think.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

COURTING RESTRAINT.

A police magistrate in New York has just held four newsstand owners in $5,000 bail each on charges of violating the law by selling obscene magazines and other periodicals. The prosecutor entered fifty-nine editions of about thirty periodicals, chiefly weeklies and monthlies, as evidence. The magistrate, after examining this evidence, stated that he was shocked to learn that New York City was flooded with publications of that nature.

Other people in other cities in this country have been shocked to discover the same condition nearer home. The creators and purveyors of pornographic reading matter are pursuing dirty money far beyond the limits of what is generally regarded as decency. Shock is as certain to be followed by reaction in connection with dirty periodicals, as it was in the liquor business, when the saloon men went further than the public would condone. If the vendors of obscene and pornographic literature find themselves up against another "Eighteenth Amendment" they will have only themselves to blame.—Detroit Free Press.

Take Care of Your Liver.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Recently I wrote about the liver and described this important organ of the body. Today I want to tell you about some disorders of the liver and gall bladder.

The liver and gall bladder today are often referred to as forming the biliary system. As with other parts of the body, this system may become disabled by distant infection. Tonsils, teeth, nasal sinuses, appendix or intestine may be the seat of infection.

The germs are carried to the gall bladder and set up an infection there, which after a short time may clear up. This is called acute cholecystitis, or acute inflammation of the gall bladder. When the infection persists, chronic cholecystitis results.

I am frequently asked what is the cause of gallstone. There are many causes. Infection is believed to be the most frequent cause. Gallstones have been described by an eminent medical writer as the "tombstones of dead germs." Never neglect infections of the gall bladder, for they may produce gallstones. It is important that the trouble be recognized early and given the proper treatment.

Many persons while asking whether surgery is the only method of cure for gallstones. Once gallstones are formed, there is no medicine known to medical science that will dissolve them. Diet and medication may relieve the attack. But they do not remove the stones.

Not all cases of gallstones are painful. It is only when the stone slips into one of the small ducts of the gall bladder and causes a spasm that severe pain is produced. Contrary to a popular belief, jaundice or a yellow color of the skin, is rarely found only when the stone is in the bile duct and its presence does not permit the bile to reach the gall bladder.

As a rule a person with gallstones has a vague, uncomfortable feeling just below and to the right of the breast bone. This discomfort may go around the right chest and often passes to the right shoulder. This is a rather frequent complaint and is usually mistaken for neuritis of the right shoulder.

Gas and other digestive disturbances also are common symptoms. The disease is most frequently found in women who are fair, fat and beyond forty years of age.

Please bear in mind that infection of the gall bladder may occur at any time. If the infection occurs and is neglected, abscess formation is rapid, and these cases require emergency operations.

If you have a tendency to gallstones, it is best to avoid fried and greasy foods, salt, pepper, spices and condiments. Meat should be taken in moderation. Water should be drunk freely between meals. Free elimination is imperative.

If you have been advised by your physician that an operation is necessary, do not delay. It is far better to walk into a hospital for the operation than to be rushed in because of extreme emergency.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

D. L. F. Q.—I am troubled with gas on the stomach and sometimes around my heart. Is it best to starve under the circumstances?

A.—Correct your diet, avoiding too much sugar and starch, and be sure to keep the system clean. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. C. S. Q.—Can a person get neuralgia and rheumatism in the chest from the shoulder blade to breast? What can be done?

A.—The trouble is due to neuralgia. Some infection in the system is usually responsible. Application of heat is often helpful.—Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BY TEMPLE MANNING

When we get home from Europe full of exciting stories and statistics about the gaming tables of Monte Carlo and the wealth that has accrued to the principality of Monaco from the casino, world travelers invariably annoy. For one of any one who has traveled extensively in the Far East is familiar with a tiny spot of land three miles in length and a half mile in breadth that is one of the greatest gaming centers in the world.

Macao was given to Portugal in 1557, after that nation had assisted the Chinese government to overcome hordes of water pirates. This Portugal began the raid on Chinese territory that has since been vigorously carried on by the various European powers. Most of the inhabitants are Chinese, and the majority of them have no idea where or what Portugal is, although they are familiar with her flag. I met a few Portuguese families, but found that nearly every one was either Chinese or Eurasian. They call themselves "Macoese."

No one long in Macao without visiting the various gaming establishments if it is only to watch the inscrutable Oriental lose or win vast sums without flinching or suffering a change of countenance. Like Monte Carlo, Macao is strong for roulette, and the wheel is always well patronized. But fan-tan is first favorite while lottery games flourish. These concessions pay the entire expense of the upkeep of the government, and so it isn't likely that there is much street-corner oratory or press agitation against gambling.

Most visitors to Macao visit the very lowest gaming dives, that cater to the poor natives and coolies, as well as the magnificently-appointed palatial establishments that are patronized by the wealthy.

People looking for thrills generally manage to visit one of the opium dens, for opium smoking is said to contribute largely to the exchequer of Macao. Facts cited at the meeting included the news that Macao has the largest opium factory in the world with employees including many children. More than $5,000 worth of the drug is contained in a single cauldron of the stuff while in process of manufacture. No wonder the officials of the government of Macao insist upon large sums merely for the privilege of having residences in this pleasant little town. And those who have waxed rich from the terrible traffic have contributed to the town by building palatial exquisite houses, terraces and gardens. But not all the beauty in the world can eradicate or make up for the ugliness of the traffic in the insidious drug.

Vice, much like Monte Carlo in other things, flourishes openly in Macao. For this Far-Eastern place also has glorious sub-tropical gardens with wonderful flowers and plants, carefully laid out and maintained. Its principal street, the Praia Grande, fronts the sea for over a mile and is a fine thoroughfare. A wall separates the Portuguese territory from that of China, and ingress and egress is through a gate. Of course the drive along the water front of the picturesque bay which is almost crescent shape is the principal outing for visitors and wealthy natives. There are also many pleasant parks alive with colorful floral displays, but these will never be the attraction to sight-seers that the gaming establishments are. In marked contrast to that phase of the settlement are the many peaceful churches and convents conducted by the Portuguese. The ecclesiastical authorities have done their best to curb the sordid traffic of Macao, but has made little headway against it. Macao has a reputation, well earned, of being a plague spot, and it won't lightly forget that reputation.

Dunmore's Invasion of Ohio.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

Lord Dunmore returned from his conference with representatives of the western Indians, held a few miles from the present city of Circleville, in the fall of 1774 where the Indians pledged themselves to cease harassing the whites of the frontier with no thought but that Virginia would remain a loyal British colony and with a dream in his mind of a vast colonial estate beyond the Ohio river. But scarcely a year elapsed before Virginia was in open rebellion and the Colonial governor forced to seek safety in flight and take refuge on board a British vessel.

Dunmore was loyal to the British crown but as a matter of fact his expedition against the Indians in Ohio resulted vastly to the advantage of the colonists in the revolution which was soon to break. The defeat of Cornstalk by Virginia troops under command of Andrew Lewis, a division of Lord Dunmore's army, at Point Pleasant, forced the Indians to pledge peace and claims to the contrary notwithstanding, the Indians did respect their treaty agreements.

But for this invasion of Ohio by this crown-appointed colonial governor and the subjugation by him of the Indian tribes fringing the frontier just before the revolution came on, these Indians would in all probability have continued their ravaging war on the frontiers, and thousands of frontiersmen the best shots in the country, would not have been free to join the Colonial army in resisting the efforts of the British to make the Declaration of Independence of no effect.

It is probably too much to say that the battle of Point Pleasant in which Dunmore's troops defeated the Indians, was really the first battle of the American Revolution. That movement was still undetermined and might have been averted; but that defeat of the Indians and the treaty with them which it immediately led up to, was of very great advantage to the colonists, since it made it impossible for the British to use the western Indian tribes as allies to harass the frontiers as they might otherwise have done.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE

New York, April 7.—A satisfying symptom of the drift back to simplicity is the Forty-Fifth street Chowder and Marching club at the historic Algonquin. Its members observe two rules. No marching—no chowder. The sophisticates in retreat from jazz and gadgets.

Sponsors for the utopian gesture include Dorothy Parker, Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt, Frank Crowninshield, Elizabeth Cobb Irwin, Margaret Case Milgan, John Harriman, William Tilden II, Harold Ross, Florence Gould, Donald Freeman and other of the town's gossamists.

The meetings are on Sunday evenings when from 6:30 to 8:30 a buffet dinner is served. From 8 to midnight and after, members and a few favored auslanders turn to the simplicities of life as lived in the days of horse-hair furniture and waxed wheat sheafs under glass. Merriment is the reigning ingredient.

There are ping pong games. Also backgammon, contract, anagrams, camelot, parcheesi, checkers, backgammon, dominoes and piquet. Also a change of pace charades are introduced several times during the evening. The first session brought out one of the most distinguished gatherings of the season.

The quaint idea for the club resulted from a sudden huddle by Dorothy Parker and Mrs. Irwin Cobb Brady. There is about it a homely charm of taffy pulls or pop-corn parties in those unpretentious suburban cottages scattered along the meads of Jersey.

Wise cracks are barred. Also the wearing of the exaggerated garment of the crooner. Even in this vastly patronized citadel of the gentry in the very heart of the "Roaring Forties" the spirit of the ice-cream social has taken Good's expression.

"It's not only one of the many desert islands of the arty gilded speaks to lend a bizarre and gauge stage. Immaculate tea rooms with chess and checker-boards after meal. And the bright bourgeois guests are those who delegate jazz is on its way out."

Robert Ripley was entranced with the Chinese junk. The object of his junket was to interview a Queen Varkaha about her pearls. Two of the most distinguished literary and theatrical artists in New York, James Montgomery Flagg and Howard Dietz Chrisman, each past fifty, is a Bryn Mawr. Of the young generation of artist Paul Patterson leads the pack sartorially. In the profile of a collar ad. lad and the touch of premature gray at his temples accentuate a worldly bravado. Patterson clings tenaciously to modest fabrics in clothes, but lets himself go in incarnadine ties—shaming those brilliant ties achieved by Johnny Horgan, the Mid Week fashion plate.

There are other striking examples the modern artist does not fit the fictionized picture of seedy clothes, run over shoes, spotty shirts and flowing tie. Par example—Harrison Fisher, master of the magazine cover. Tall straight as an arrow, he is a monochromic from the gray of his spats to the gray of his hair. Even the crook of his cane is tipped in lizard gray. Broadway's sartorial tradition is upheld by Ham Fisher, of the comic strips. This spring he anticipates the riotous coloring of the derby winner's giddy blanket.

George M. Cohan and Sam H. Harris grew up in the world of the theater, last fiercely business partners and married sisters. Then came one of those unexplainable squalls that often wrecking such devotions. For ten years they did not speak. A well-known restaurateur worried over the schism. One day he intimated to Cohan that all was not well with his erstwhile partner, hinting financial reverses. Cohan was an inexcusable white lie, but caused Cohan to send for Harris. He came. They shook hands, indulged the light banter of mutual embarrassment and the breach was healed. To this day they can not explain the harsh words in the fade in their camaraderie.

Grain Raising in France.

BY RALPH HEINZEN

Paris, April 7.—(U. P.)—France has put 1,179,277 acres more in wheat this season than in 1931 and is hoping for normal weather conditions which may produce a crop capable of making the country itself self-supporting in wheat for the first time in history.

Last year's harvest of 70,285,300 quintaux left France about 20,000,000 quintaux short of requirements.

The annual survey of crop conditions by the ministry of agriculture shows the following planting:

	1932 Acres	19.. Acres
Wheat	12,893,752	11,714
Rye	1,791,129	1,84
Meslin	17,677	2
Barley	432,350	485
Oats	2,205,194	2,174

* * *

Despite the warm dry winter, the grain crops are not in good condition. This is largely due to the very light snowfall. The ministry reports using a scale of 100 for very good promises eighty for good and sixty for fair. It rated the wheat, rye, barley and oats crops at seventy-four on February 1 and meslin at seventy-three.

The ministry explained the increased planting of wheat and oats to the Tardieu policy of high tariff duties on imported grain, to encourage farmers to plant grain instead of grapes wherever possible—thus coming closer to balancing the farm products budget.

France has had a top-heavy over-production of wine for many years, but has had to import wheat abroad annually.

* * *

As minister of agriculture before becoming minister of war, Andre Tardieu started the plan of revalorizing farm products. He placed a duty of 800 francs on wheat and started the license import plan to control "dumping" for that reason French wheat sells in French markets for nearly three times the price American farmers can obtain in Chicago for their grain.

Several years ago many farmers, disappointed with low wheat prices, turned their cultivated fields into pastures and started to raise cattle for the markets. Now wheat prices are proving more attractive and the pastures are being plowed up again.

France is still far from the pre-war acreage of wheat, however, for the ministry's records show that in 1913 France had planted 15,683,000 acres in wheat. Much of this ground was damaged during the war that it could not be tilled again while other wheat ground has been taken by the expanding cities.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasant results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.—Adv.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderfully harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO
Unexpected Encounter

The first of February brought Kitty—Kitty's own, now Kitty to Gar and be pocketfully.

Anyway, Kit," he commented, paid those others.

Now you see that you needn't worry."

Of course she needn't worry. A dozen times she assured Gar that she liked her new found leisure. She did not tell him how she spent it, how often she went to Carol's, how often she saw David. Nor did she ask him where he'd got the money to pay Bond and the others.

The players were presenting "Loyalties" the last of February. The rehearsals took Gar away from her. She did not suggest that she go with him.

One day she called Gar on the telephone. Gar wasn't in the office. He'd gone out about 11:30. He'd said he wouldn't be in again that day, old Jonathan answered her. His voice was of the patient, kind quality—like Pound's. Did she imagine she caught a little note of pity in it?

Perhaps Gar—But she would not go on with that thought.

At dinner Gar told her that he had to go to the theater. "I may be late tonight, sweet. Don't sit up for me. Miriam Holt's dropped out of the cast and Somerset's put Dunn the thing'll go slow tonight."

Quite in accord they discussed Diana Close's ability and lack of ability. Gar went off, kissing Kitty affectionately in parting.

Kitty remembered that the Philadelphia symphony was playing at Music hall. She'd go there.

She'd wanted to go to the concerts all winter but Gar had refused. That sort of music bored him, he'd said.

She reached the hall too late to take a seat before the opening number. She joined a little group of people, standing, impatiently waiting. And in it she saw David.

"David, how nice!"

"Alone?"

"Yes. Gar's busy with the players. But I'm not alone now. See if you can change our tickets."

He took hers and went to the box office, returning with adjoining seats.

"I've never heard an orchestra like this, except on the radio," she confided to him, laughing as they took their seats.

Bright color glowed on her cheeks. She was wearing a black dinner dress which enhanced the creaminess of her slender throat.

"You're looking rather prettier than usual, tonight, Kitty."

She laughed softly. Such direct admiration from David was new. She turned a bright smile on him. She wanted David to say more nice things to her.

But the orchestra began Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. David had forgotten her! She watched his face, its absorption, its eagerness tightening.

"Gorgeous, wasn't it?" she asked when the symphony was over.

And David looked at her a little vaguely, nodding. His wordlessness seemed to rebuke her; she resented it with some amusement.

Amused, she fell to thinking of things she would say as soon as the music ceased.

But after a little it came to her with a shock that she wasn't listening to the music. She closed her eyes and settled back in her chair. And gradually the sound swept over her, lifted her, released her. It seemed to pour itself into her body and heart and brain. She put her hand a little blindly until it caught David's arm.

The symphony ended. David smiled at her.

"David." Her hand still clung to his arm. "David, that did something to me."

She was ashamed—ashamed of what she'd been doing, sitting here, planning how she'd hold David's attention. She was frightened, too.

"I'm going to put you in a taxi, Kitty," David said when they were out in the street.

They stood on the fringe of the crowd pressing at the curb waiting to claim the cars that swung up in a close procession. And in the confusion of noise Kitty heard a familiar voice. "Here, let us through, please." Gar. Gar making a way for Margery Crosby. The Crosby chauffeur was holding open the door of the Crosby limousine. In an instant he had closed it upon Gar and Marge. The car rolled off to make way for the next.

"Here we are, Kitty." David had commandeered a taxi. He had not seen Gar.

"Good night," she said brightly.

Gar, who didn't like symphony concerts! But he'd been dragged into it, of course. Something had happened to postpone the rehearsal, of course. He'd telephoned, and found that she wasn't at the apartment.

Gar would tell her just how it happened when she got home.

She reached the apartment before Gar.

Gar came in, in high spirits. Had she been lonesome? He asked it with his arms around her.

Kitty waited.

"It's going to make it all right, Kit. She's a good sport and Somerset'll whip her into shape."

But perhaps they'd had the rehearsal and Gar and Marge had gone into the concert late.

"Somerset worked them to a finish, I'll say. He went over part of it a half dozen times. It was 10 o'clock before he'd let them go. That's why I'm so late."

Have you had a busy day?" She hated herself for asking it, for feeling so icy cool and calm.

"Just that. Things are going great."

She went into the bedroom.

"Well, I didn't tell him I was there with David. I don't tell him when I go to Ketchum street. Or when I see Carol."

She felt a sob shake her. She felt tears streaming down her cheeks. She knew, now, of what she was so afraid of that Kitty Frew she had come to be.

• • •

"But don't you see, David, that I've got to go on?" Kitty appealed some days later.

Kitty said this over and over, but not to David, only in wretched moments when, just to plan a heart-to-heart talk with David, eased her mind.

"And, David, I've been a fool these last few weeks, a perfect fool, silly and reckless."

To Be Continued.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Marion's Cool Comments About Owen Lead Madge to Conclude the Girl Has Been Cured of Her Infatuation for Him.

"DON'T you want your uncle here for the dance, Carolyn?" I asked with every appearance of bewilderment, which was, indeed, partly real.

Marion's "roomie" looked at me with a queer little defiance in her eyes.

"No, I don't," she said. "He's getting to be a mosquito in the sun porch, and Ron and I are so fed up with him we could scream. He isn't our real uncle, you know, any more than our father is our real father. But we've never known any difference with Dad. Lots of own fathers aren't as good to their kids as he has been. He's wonderful!"

There was enthusiasm and sincere affection in her voice, and I wondered how Lillian was reacting to this tribute to the man whom she associated with her early marital unhappiness.

Carolyn's Opinion

"But Uncle Charlie is something else again," Carolyn went on. "Of course, when we were little he was terribly nice to us, and Dad taught us to call him 'Uncle Charlie,' although he's only Dad's half brother. But we've been looking at him sideways for quite a while now; although when I first went to Whitney Hall he was so thundering nice, and I was so proud of having him come down—you'd welcome the devil himself, at school, if you could make the other girls jealous—that I sort of crushed back the feelings I had against him. But I can't stand him much longer, and if you ask me, I think he'll be the world's wettest smack at the party."

We always have looked upon Carolyn as lovable but irresponsible and too scatter-brained to have any firm opinions about anything. There was that in her voice, however, which made us realize that some intense feeling was behind her words, and though she did not look at Marion as she spoke, I wondered if her pseudo uncle's endeavor to win her "roomie's" consent to marry him was not the primary cause for her dislike.

My heart warmed to the pretty child whom Dicky called the "[illegible] flapper," and I was strongly compelled to tell her of my [illegible] pathy with her sentiments. Fortunately for our [illegible] was swifter of [illegible] speaking, with [illegible]

"Carolyn, I am astonished! What do you think your mother would say if she could hear you speaking in this way of the man you always have been taught to call your uncle, and who has always appeared to be so fond of you?" Marion has told me how wonderfully kind he has been to you both, when he came down to Whitney Hall. And as for his being a 'wet smack' at the party, he is not your youngsters seem enough to see how far above these callow college boys in appearance and social experience he is."

"Don't count me in with the others for his smacking. Aunt Lillian," Mary said with a grin. "I'm here to tell the world that if Mr. Owen doesn't come, I'm going to be good and sore. He's one of the best dancers that ever put a foot into a dancing pump."

I guessed that both she and Lillian were as breathlessly anxious as I to hear Marion's comment, but when it came it gave us no enlightenment whatever as to her real feelings toward Charles Owen.

"What's eating you, anyway, Carol?" she queried. "Why get so hot and bothered about the man when he'll only be here for one night? Any man that can dance and wear clothes with an air is extra marmalade at a party, and he probably won't expect you to do the dutiful niece stunt. He'll be too busy."

Her voice was as matter-of-fact as if she were discussing a stranger. Either she was entirely cured of her infatuation for Charles Owen, or she was possessed of unusual histrionic ability. I did not dare to hope for the first hypothesis, but I gained confidence from my experience of the almost brutal frankness of the younger generation. Surely she would have betrayed anger at Carolyn instead of bored annoyance if her apparently romantic feeling for Owen had survived her short absence from him.

An End to the Discussion

"He'll be busy, all right," Carolyn said with a spiteful little laugh and I guessed that she was striking out on Marion the humiliated remembrance that she did not dare to show Lillian. "You and Mary will probably be scratching each other's eyes out over the old fool, and I suppose when this Arlen person sees how goofy you two are, she'll figure out he's a captain of the Coldstream Guards, or something like that, and get busy."

"You'd better be thankful if she does," Marion retorted. "Bob Lillan's just about enough and can't enough—thank you, Mother!—for a lovely adjective to fall on the Arlen with a loud crash."

It was high time I decided to end this colloquy, and I spoke decisively.

"We haven't much time to waste in the discussion of Miss Arlen's tactics, or her success or failure. We must get hold of your mother, Carolyn, right away. You'd want to talk to her also about your dress, Lillian, will you telephone Miss Brixton or shall I?"

"You're the boss," Lillian spread her hands with a comic gesture at me, and I walked to the telephone knowing I would [illegible] the call, but dreading it.

It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. LEAGUES WILL OPEN COMPETITION MAY 9

Five New Combines Listed Among Contestants; New Playing Field To Be Constructed.

Thirty-two teams, the same number as last season, will compete this season in the four city softball circuits here. The season will open on Monday, May 9, one day earlier than last season. Sunday school league No 2 will have the honor of officially opening the season playing on Monday night as in former seasons Sunday school league No 1 will swing into action on Tuesday, May 10, the Industrial circuit will commence competition on Thursday, May 12, and the Commercial loop will start the ball rolling on Friday, May 13.

Exactly 32 teams filed entries with the city commission before the deadline at 8 p m last night Considerable shifting about was done by the commission in order to make up what appears to be the strongest possible leagues The two Sunday school loops will remain intact from last season but the Commercial and Industrial will see several new teams in the lineups

New teams taken into the leagues this season are St Paul's Episcopal, Presbyterian Athletic club, Masons, Eagles and Augenstine A. C The Presbyterians, by entering the second team, enter the realm of churches sponsoring more than one combine. Epworth and Central Christians are the only other two churches backing more than one club Epworth has three, two in No 1 Sunday school loop and one in No 2 circuit while Central Christian has two, both in No 2 loop

No. 1 League Teams

The teams in the No 1 Sunday school league will line up as follows this season: St Mary's Lutherans Trinity Baptist, Calvary, Epworth Bishops, Lee Street Presbyterians, Epworth No 1 and First Presbyterians St Mary's was champion of the circuit last season First Presbyterians are in the loop this year by virtue of having won the second Sunday school league title last season, thus being entitled to move up into No 1 circuit under the rules of the game here.

The teams in the No 2 church circuit are: Forest Lawn, Christians Seniors, Christians No. 1 Wesley M. E., United Brethren, St Paul's Lutheran, First Reformed and Epworth Seniors. The Epworth Seniors are the only newcomer to this league, having dropped down from No. 1 league as a result of having finished in last place in No .1 church league in 1931

The Industrial circuit will be made up as follows Huber Manufacturing company, Gasco club Marion Steam Shovel company, Erie Mechanics (formerly Erie Roundhouse), C, D. & M. Electric company, Excavator-Alloy (formerly General Excavator), Augenstine A. C and Eagles. The C, D & M captured the Industrial league gonfalon in 1931.

Commercial League

In the Commercial league which plays Friday night, the lineup will be as follows Kappas, K of P, Serv U Wel Grocers, Masons Prospect Firemen, Presbyterian A C Erie Traffic club, and St Paul's Episcopal The Kappas have been champions of this league for the last two seasons.

The commission last night voted to appropriate money for the construction of a new playing field near Willow and Bradford streets in southeast Marion The field will be known as Harding field and will be ready for play on the opening date It will replace Prospect field at McKinley park where Marion McKinley park was located this season

One new rule was adopted last night by the commission in regard to the teams participating in the Little World Series. That provides that should any team having won the league championship and the right to compete in the series fail to have nine players present for play in the series due to any cause, this team shall forfeit its right to play in the series The team finishing in the next position of the league standings shall step into place of the league champion and compete in the series

Should the team winning the No 2 Sunday school circuit be debarred from series competition by this ruling, then it would automatically forfeit its right to move up into the No. 1 Sunday school league the following season

CRACK DETROIT FIVE ROLLS 3,010 TOTAL IN A. B. C. TOURNEY

High-Powered Cleveland Canfield Oil Quintet To Assault Maples Today.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 7--For the fourth time in the current American Bowling Congress tournament, a team of ten-pin topplers has rolled a 3,000 total.

The Chevy Trombleys, crack Detroit quintet bowled games of 995 1,005 and 1,010 last night—the most consistent shooting of the tournament to vault into fourth place in the standings of the main event with a 3,010

Tonight, the celebrated Canfield Oils of Cleveland, rated as one of the highest powered fives in the country swung into action.

There were only two changes among the leaders in the minor events yesterday. Hartman and Ehrle Detroit, tied for sixth position in the doubles, with a total of 1,295 on games of 403, 460 and 432 Hartman rolled 237, 235 and 237 for 709, to which he added 589 for his singles event score. A 617 for his team score gave him a total of 1906 and tenth position in the all-events

M'Graw, at 59th Milestone, Sees Baseball Losing Former Punch

JOHN McGRAW

BY CHARLES A. GRIMICH
By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7—White-haired John McGraw, 59 years old today, believes baseball has lost much of the punch and aggressiveness that he has exemplified during 42 years as a fiety player and manager.

"The ball is the same size, the bases are the same distance apart as they were when I first started in baseball," he explains, "but the game isn't played as aggressively."

McGraw, reputed to be a $65,000-a year manager, puts the blame on money.

"Men used to play ball without asking what their salaries were, now they want to know what they're going to get before they'll put on a uniform" McGraw said "It's the same with the college player—it's how much can I get out of it?"

"When I first played—back in 1890 as a not-very good third baseman—I got $40 a month. I went to the big leagues at $1,400 a season, was raised to $1,500 and thought I was doing well. The players don't take the interest now. They're not as serious as they used to be."

After 30 years with the Giants, McGraw hopes to continue in baseball the rest of his life, but added with a twinkle in his eye, "I don't know how much longer I'll stay. I am not so active physically as I was a few years ago."

The 1932 race? "We've got a good club and we'll be hard to beat with luck"

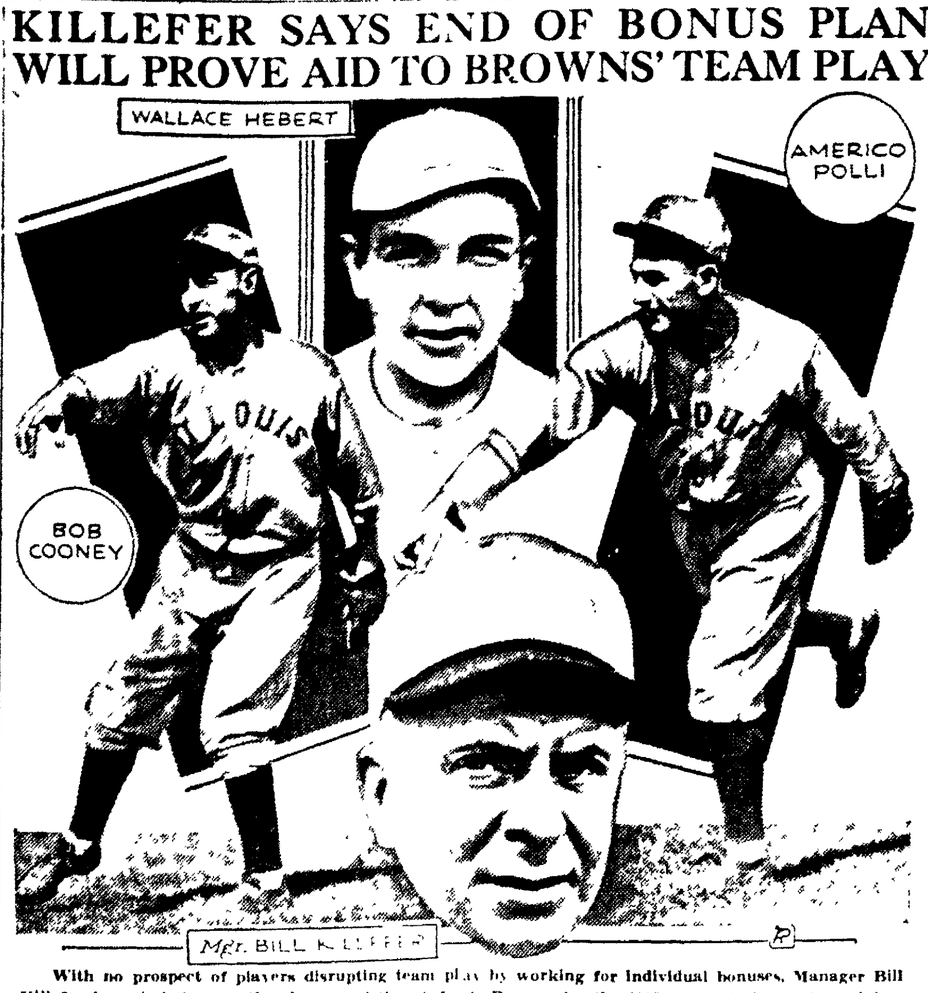
KILLEFER SAYS END OF BONUS PLAN WILL PROVE AID TO BROWNS' TEAM PLAY



With no prospect of players disrupting team play by working for individual bonuses, Manager Bill Killefer is optimistic over the chances of the St Louis Browns for the 1932 pennant chase In training games in the south, Killefer is trying to unearth an other winning hurler. Three of the likeliest prospects are pictured with the manager.

BY WILLIAM KILLEFER
(Manager, St. Louis Browns)
By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS Getting rid of the bonus system, I am certain, not only will help the Browns in general, but will be a boon to each individual player

In one or two exceptional cases on a ball club, a bonus may be a good thing, but to adopt the plan generally I am convinced is a detriment to smooth team play

The Browns had a pretty fair pitching staff last year but one good man was needed to work with Blaeholder Coffman, Gray and Stewart I hope we have him this year in young Wallace Hebert He appears certain to help us a lot

Coffman figures to get off to a better start this year and turn in more victories. He has the stuff Of course I am grooming Bob Cooney and Americo Polli in our training in the south and they may help the club Cooney won 17 for Wichita Falls last year and Polli accounted for 21 victories with Milwaukee Good records, both of them

I wish we had another good left-handed hitter for outfield duty The club would be fixed out there then The present outfield shapes us as Goslin, Schulte and Kress Kress will be started in right field, and I hope to keep him at that post He played everywhere last season except in the box It was pretty tough, but I had to keep shifting him to put up the stoutest front possible

Levey will go in as a utility infielder and I feel sure he will be a better boy and therefore a better ball player this year He should be a corking shortstop Stutz will start at third, and with a season's experience should show improvement

Burns will get the call at first and I count on him to have a good year. Last season both Burns and Stutz were light hitters If they improve we will go places

In general I feel pretty good over my pitching and catching staffs and the outfield The chief worries are caused by the infield and reserves

If a couple of the clubs youngsters will only pound the ball we will be in their batting for a first division berth.

THE NEWEST ALIBI

Golf Specialist Finds Brand New Reason for Poor Scores.

By The Associated Press

URBANA Ill April 7 If you wish to play a good game of golf, just work up a headache and maybe you'll put old man par where "he" belongs

The golf player with a headache has the advantage over his companion who feels "as a fiddle" Dr. Coleman R Griffith psychological research director of athletics at the University of Illinois said today. His explanation is

"This headache keeps him from pressing and from experimenting. He is out merely to play the game and this means he is apt to do that which he has been most in the habit of doing

"If a man goes out to play golf feeling fine either of two things may happen He may start to make each hole in one or he will be guilty of pressing Or he may experiment. Pressing breaks up timing and rhythm. Experimenting may lead to disaster

"The man who has a headache or is not at his best will not be guilty of pressing He will play his natural game"

Firemen Organize.

Harold (Dutch) Monnett was named business manager last night of the firemen softball team. "Pete" Latimore will act as playing manager of the team The firemen played here last summer in independent competition compiling a good record for the season.

In a population of more 6,100,000 Portugal is estimated to have fewer than 5,000 radio receiving sets.

...a flurry of short ...first hour, which ...up 1 to 2 points ...the list quickly ...and by early ...numerous ...losses of fractions to 3 points sending much of the list further into new low ground.

Utilities continued to bear the brunt of selling losses of 1 to 3 points appeared in such issues as Consolidated Gas Public Service of N. J., Detroit Edison, Columbia Gas, Stone & Webster, Commonwealth and Southern preferred and Southern California Edison, among the specialties. Kresge was a weak feature, dropping 4 points. The decline was attributed largely to dividend uncertainties. American Can also encountered considerable pressure, sagging more than 2 to a 5-year bottom. Bethlehem Steel, Corn Products, Procter & Gamble and Union Pacific also sagged a point or more. U. S. Steel tipped fractionally to a new minimum. Rails held up relatively better than recently.

The latest phase of the 2 year decline has now been in progress for five weeks. During that period the price average has shown a decline for every trading session save six. The fundamental factor in the slump has undoubtedly been the failure of business activity to show the expected spring quickening. It has been aggravated by such things as uncertainty over federal taxation, the Kreuger debacle, and projected public utility reorganizations. But the decline has now worn on to a point where traders are especially awaiting some sign of a turn.

DUST STORMS BOOST WHEAT

Adverse Crop Conditions in Kansas Send Prices Higher at Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 7—Spreading of adverse crop conditions in domestic winter wheat territory southwest and west led to fresh upturns in grain values early today.

Kansas advices told of gangs working to keep highways clear and one dust drift three feet deep and half a mile long. Opening 1¼ to 1½ higher, wheat continued to mount. Corn started unchanged to a shade up and subsequently rose further.

With no important rains reported in drouth territory, and with chances of moisture relief apparently remote, some trade authorities were predicting that by midsummer wheat prices would be in the seventies owing to crop impairment and to enlarged foreign demand. Special significance was attached to dispatches from a leading crop specialist telling of expansion of wheat damage throughout central portions of Kansas and Nebraska altogether eastward of known injured sections further west. Adding to purchase incentives were reports of temperatures around freezing in the Texas Panhandle accompanied by extremely high north winds.

Profit taking on wheat price bulges, however, brought about setbacks at times. Wheat bears put stress meanwhile on weakness of securities. An opposite factor was attention given to likelihood that the department of agriculture forecast to be issued in Washington tomorrow would reflect some portion of recent crop losses. Corn and oats chiefly followed wheat market changes.

Provisions were steadied by summaries of hog values.

Permission, he said had been obtained from the county commissioners today to close off the south side of the boulevard leading from Delaware avenue to Vernon Heights north of the Harding Memorial for the use of skaters each day from four to 9 p. m.

The plan is a part of the war being waged by the police on boys and girls who have been skating on the streets. Several pairs of skates taken from street skaters were added to the pile at police headquarters last night. A new plan inaugurated by Police Chief Marks Tuesday is to confiscate skates of any boy or girl caught skating in the street.
